March state tax collections $19.4 million less than consensus revenue estimates

March 31, 2011

TOPEKA – State tax collections for March came in $19.4 million less than the consensus revenue estimates for the month, putting the state $25.8 million, or .7 percent, behind estimates for the fiscal year.

“We are coming in a bit below estimates for the year, so we know that Kansans are still struggling. That’s why it’s important to maintain our focus on a pro-growth agenda to further help businesses and people in Kansas,” said Revenue Secretary Nick Jordan. “Still, year to date revenues are ahead of last year and that is a positive step for the Kansas economy.”

Overall, revenues are $361.4 million, or 10.4 percent, more than at the end of March 2010.
